

TO SUE STATE FOR $75,000 DAMAGES

Attorney J. B. Klein Begins Preparations of Papers in Action That May Involve Greenwich Officials

Salvatore Lemma, arrested and sentenced to 14 years in state's prison with Salvatore Rana, for a murderous attack upon George Merriam, a paymaster upon a large dam at Greenwich, Conn., being built in 1909, but after serving four years in prison, released at the instigation of State Attorney Simeon Judson, who secured evidence that they were not the guilty parties, will sue the state of Connecticut for false imprisonment.

Papers are being drawn by Attorney Jacob Klein in which $75,000 damages will be asked for the false imprisonment and later deportation of Lemma by the United States government, and that most sensational charges of conspiracy involving officers of the law at Greenwich will be made seem probable from the statements made by Lemma today.

The convicted man after being released from prison was taken to New York and shipped to Italy where it was said that he had committed a crime. Upon being landed on the other side he immediately cleared his record and was allowed to return to his country where he is now living in Derby, at 172 Main street.

The crime for which he was arrested was the holding up of the paymaster while driving with a large sum of money upon a lonely road. Merriam was ambushed and while he was being taken away was dangerously wounded. Later Lemma and Rana were arrested. They were convicted upon circumstantial evidence and in the suit about to be brought he will declare that his conviction was brought about through "fixery." The case if brought to trial is likely to be of the most sensational character.

Representative Donovan Refuses to Let the Absent "Brothers" Get Away With It

Calls the Roll to Show Up the Tardy Ones Who Are Generally On Hand When Their Special Interests Are at Stake.

(By Our Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, July 3.—Representative Donovan called the roll of a number of the absentees in rather a unique manner in the House of Representatives yesterday afternoon.

"I would like to have the attention of the gentleman from Washington," Mr. Donovan said, "Mr. Donovan addressing the chair."

"He is not here," said a member.

"O. Can I have the attention of the gentleman from Ohio, Mr. Fess?" continued Mr. Donovan.

"He is out," stated a member.

"Well can I have the attention of the minority leader, (Mr. Mann)?"

"He is temporarily absent," said Mr. Stafford of Wisconsin.

"I should like to have the attention of the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Humphrey, for I do not want to say in his absence what I wish to say, or in the absence of the gentleman from Ohio, the intellectual member, Mr. Fess."

"He has left the city to deliver a patriotic oration on the Fourth of July," interrupted Mr. Stafford. "The gentleman from Wisconsin should address the speaker and not proceed in that disorderly way," said Mr. Donovan amidst laughter. He continued: "All of these commercial interests, Mr. Speaker, should be represented on the floor in the Congress of the Nation. Now as to that great lawyer whom we are told is the greatest legal gentleman in the United States (Mr. Graham), the gentleman from Pennsylvania, I would like to have his attention for a few minutes."

Finding that Mr. Graham was also absent Mr. Donovan continued: "Can it be possible that he is present only when some special interest has something on hand? Well Mr. Speaker, inasmuch as these gentlemen are not present, I will yield the balance of my time." (Laughter and applause.)

Pursuant to this incident Mr. Donovan endeavored to hurry along the debate in the House in order to facilitate business. The House was debating the bill to limit campaign expenses and was talking under the five minute rule.

Stafford of Wisconsin had used five minutes and Sisson of Mississippi asked that he be given three minutes more.

Reserving the right to object Mr. Donovan said: "I think that the gentleman from Wisconsin ought to be considered, of some of those who are obliged to stay here, I think."

He thought it was fair that the other side be given an equal amount of time.

Mr. Donovan: "The gentleman from Tennessee has been on the same steps, only he is on this side (the Democratic). Now it is almost painful to us, at least to some of us to hear repetitions of this sort hour after hour."

He would not be thoughtful enough of some of us here to ask unanimous consent to extend his remarks, and have what he wants to say inserted in the Record."

Mr. Garrett interjected here that he did not suppose the gentleman from Connecticut understood the meaning of the word "courtesy."

Mr. Donovan: "Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, I want to declare that that gratuitous insult from the gentleman from Tennessee was uncalled for. I do not know anyone who remains silent so little and takes part in irregular proceedings more than the gentleman from the whole and in the body of the House. Day after day we are sitting here listening to discussions that are foreign to the subject at hand and the gentleman from Tennessee understands that."

In the Senate yesterday afternoon Senator Brandegee spoke against absentees in the Senate and declared that the Trade Commission bill and the Anti-Trust bill were unnecessary legislation.

Senator Cummins, Republican, of Iowa who is defending the Trade Commission bill, took exception to the statement of the Senator from Connecticut in saying that the bill was not understood, and was not good wholesome legislation. Senator Cummins is supporting the bill which is a progressive Democratic measure.

The American Institute of Homeopathy announces that it will erect a $500 hospital with college facilities at Kansas City, Mo.

HARRY FORD IN HIS METZ WAITING FOR WORD

Competing for the prizes in the final Three Excelsiors, three Thors, three Pops and three Indians are entered. The fastest time in the trials registered to date is by Phelps on an Excelsior, he negotiating the track twice in 1:14.

Bob Beach and Harry Ford in their Little Ford and Metz cars, respectively, furnish the third event on the program. The distance they will travel is five miles and besides the special cup, offered by the prize committee, they are competing for a side bet of $500. Beach has had a wide experience in the racing game, and though Ford's Metz is generally considered the faster on a straightaway, there is great doubt as to his ability to distance his rival.

Cycle cars compete in the fourth event, a five-mile one for a trophy cup. H. M. Ford has entered and will drive his Saxon; the American Cycle company has entered and C. M. Foss will drive a Trumbull car; the Oswego cycle car, entered by the Oswego Manufacturing company will have A. McMullen, Jr., at the wheel, while J. J. Bullock will drive his Little Giant. A fifth cycle car, manufactured in this city has entered, though the driver is not known.

The final and feature event of the program is the free-for-all for stock cars, 10 miles, two cups as prizes. Entries are Ford, by Beach; Oakland, by Harry M. Ford; Willman 30, Willman garage, Metz by Harry Ford and a Corbin.

Officials for the day follow: Dr. T. F. Martin, judge, and Hugh Hamilton, starter for horse race. Henry Severin, judge and starter for motor cycle race.

Arthur L. Clark, judge and starter; Lawrence Cornwall, timer.

Aerodrome Park Races Tomorrow Afternoon

Events Include Horse, Motor Cycle and Automobile Races

Speed of all kinds will be the mania at Aerodrome park tomorrow afternoon, when racing events in half a dozen different classes will hold the boards commencing at 2 o'clock. Then will follow as quickly as the officials get the drivers out, three heat motorcycle race with a dozen different machines competing; a special race between Bob Beach's Ford and Harry Ford's Metz, a cycle car event and the feature race of the program, a 10-mile free-for-all, in which half a dozen cars have been entered. During the afternoon an exhibition flight will be made in a biplane, heavier than air machine which was built on the grounds by Agot, a French aviator. The track has been worked over many times during the week and the finishing touches to conditioning it will be put on today.

The Wheeler & Wilson band has been engaged to play during the afternoon. Opening the program will be the horse race, the entries being Callamand, owned by James Doonan of Frank street, and with a record of 2:30 and V. Mark, owned by Charles Cavanaugh of Railroad avenue.
